

VXi-HUB

JLid-COMM & OPTICAL AUDIO NETWORK HUB

VXi-HUB: Single-HUB Connection

Product Description

The VXi-HUB is designed to provide network connectivity of VXi amplifiers, allowing synchronization of DRC controllers and DSP presets. Networking also simplifies the configuration and tuning of connected VXi amplifiers using the TüN™ PC and TüN™ Mobile applications.

The VXi-HUB provides JLiD-COMM and optional S/PDIF optical repeater connections for up to five slave amplifiers. Up to two VXi-HUBs can be daisy-chained allowing network connectivity of up to ten VXi amplifiers. All energy to power the VXi-HUB is derived from connected VXi amplifiers.

What is Included

- (1) VXi-HUB
- (1) Connection Guide

Note: The VXi-HUB utilizes a proprietary JLiD™ communication protocol via standard CAT5e network cables (not included). Use only CAT5e type network cables and keep cable length as short as possible for optimum performance.

Configuration Switch

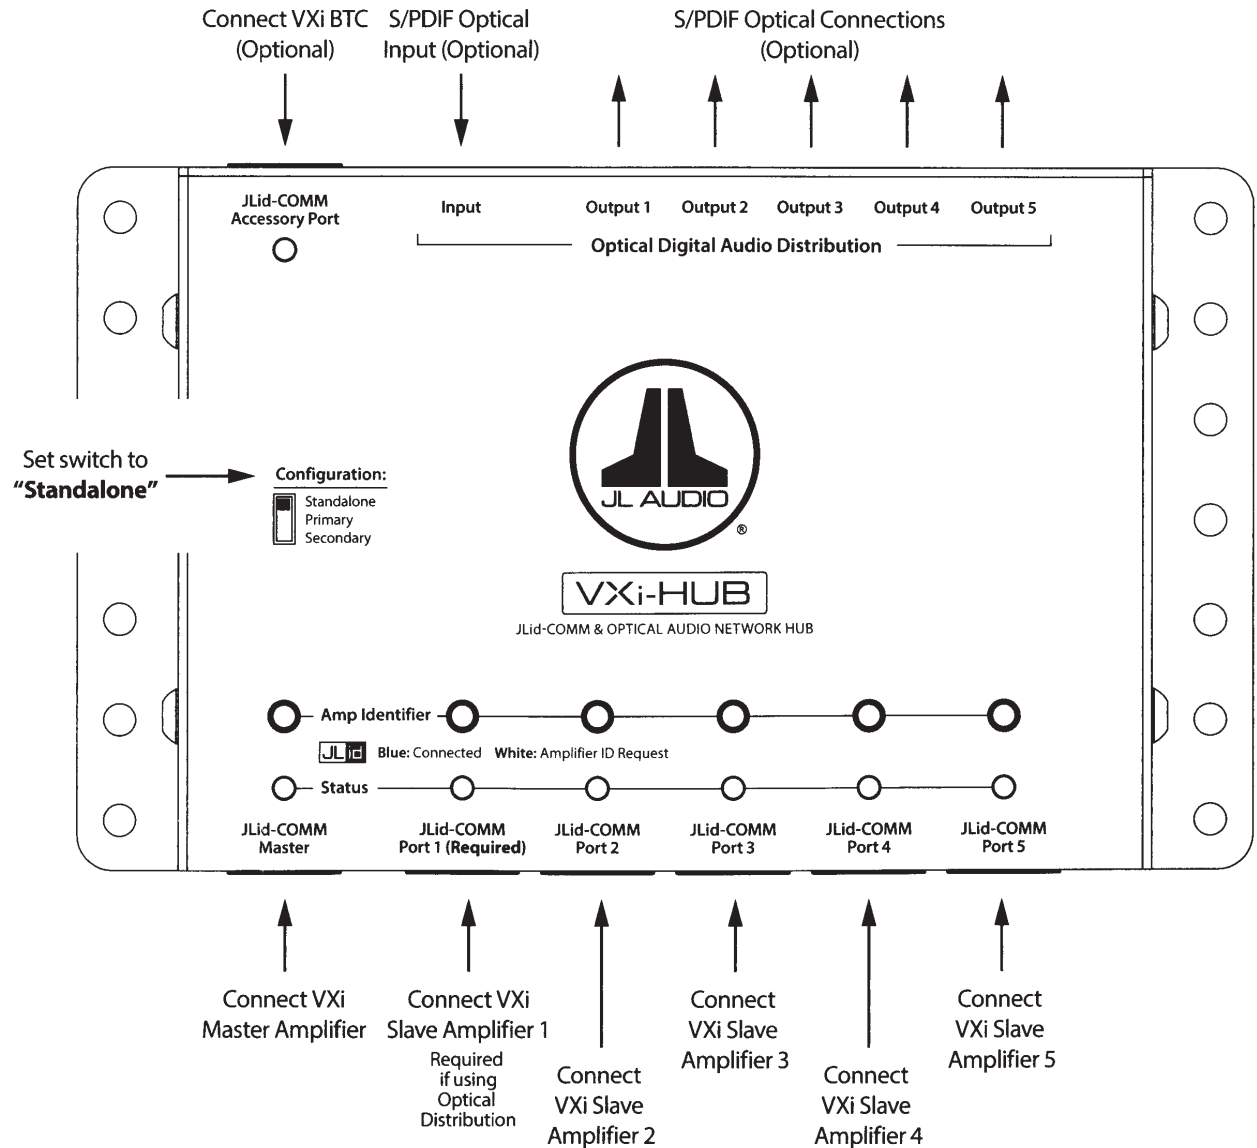

- Standalone: Select for single-HUB systems
- Primary: Select for Master VXi amplifier in two-HUB systems
- Secondary: Select when downstream in two-HUB systems

Amp Identifier & Status LEDs

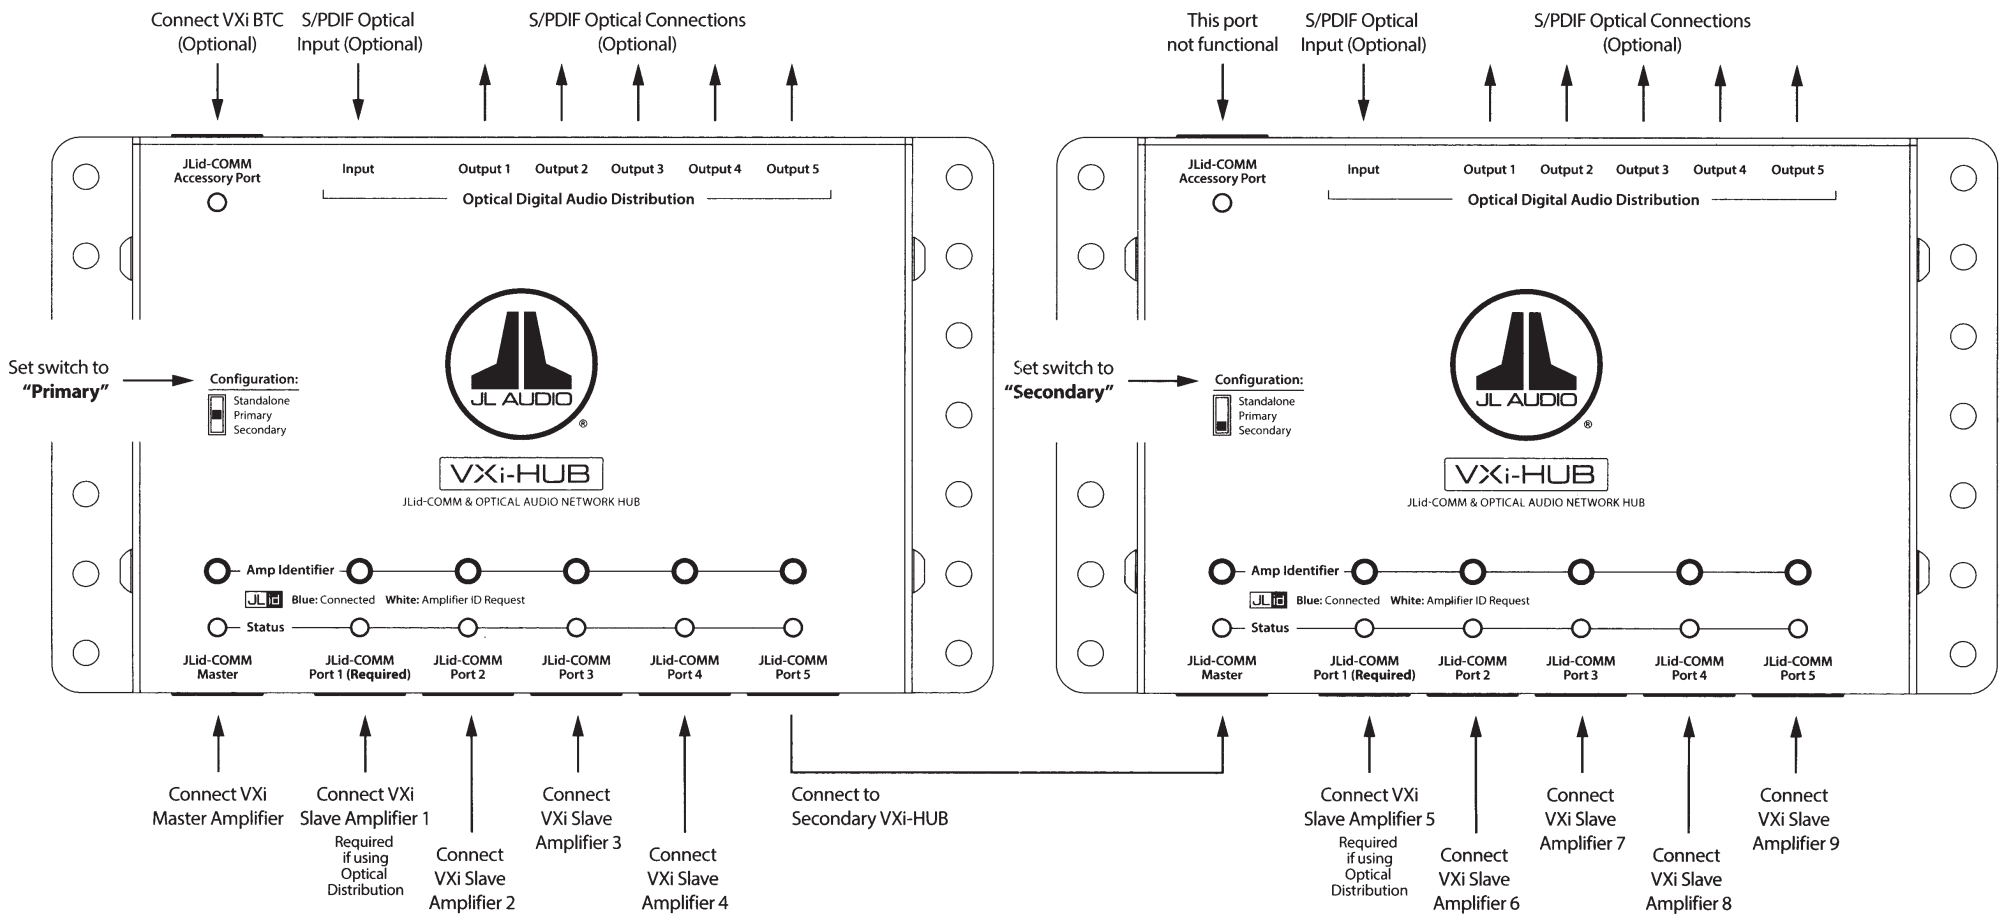

Each JLiD-COMM port is equipped with a status LED that will illuminate solid blue when connected to a VXi amplifier. Pressing an Amp Identifier button on the VXi-HUB will change its status LED to white and cause the LED badge on the connected VXi amplifier to flash white.

JLiD-COMM Accessory Port & LED

This JLiD-COMM Accessory Port LED illuminates blue when a compatible JLiD™ accessory (such as the VXi-BTC) is connected and powered. An amber LED indicates an incompatible connection.
